CANADIAN MINISTER WILL ARRIVE MONDAY

Vincent Massey Will Be
Honor Guest at Forum
Luncheon.

The highest official of the Canadian government ever to honor Atlanta with a visit, the Right Honorable Vincent Massey, Canadian minister, to the United States, will arrive here next Monday morning and be the guest of the city for a day.

Accompanied by Mr. Massey and his secretary, the minister will arrive here over the Georgia railroad from Charleston, having come to the South Carolina city from Mexican Gulf points at which he made addresses. Entertainment for the minister and Mrs. Massey, prior to a forum luncheon to be tendered them by the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce at 12:30 o'clock Monday, will be arranged today.

Governor Hardman and all former governors of Georgia resident in Atlanta and Mayor L. N. Ragsdale will be invited to sit at the speaker's table with the distinguished visitor, Benjamin S. Barker, executive vice president of the Chamber of Commerce, said Thursday.

Minister Massey is one of Canada's foremost figures in the world of art, commerce and diplomacy. In 1925, while a member of the Canadian privy council, he was appointed minister without portfolio and in 1926 was appointed first as envoy extraordinary to this country and subsequently as minister plenipotentiary.

He is a former president of the extensive Massey-Harris Company, of Canada, and from 1921-1923 served as a director of the Canadian Bank of Commerce and the Mutual Life Insurance Company. During the latter part of the World War he was associate secretary of war in the Canadian cabinet and afterward director of the dominion's repatriation commission.

TRAIN-AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENTS KILL 16 DURING SINGLE DAY

BY UNITED PRESS.

Sixteen persons were killed today when railway trains in various sections of the country struck automobiles.

At Erie, Pa., four men were killed. A freight train had cleared a crossing and a watchman, blinded by a snowstorm, mistook the gates without seeing an approaching express. A truck and a passenger automobile started across the tracks and were hit. Tony Station, 25; Joe Station, 19; Robert Evans, 15, and Clyde R. Hinkson, all of Erie, were the men killed.

At La Follette, Tenn., W. F. Mettler, his wife, their son and two daughters were killed by a train at a grade crossing.

At Dallas, Texas, five women were killed, and at Cisco, Texas, a man and his wife died in a similar manner.

MAN SLAIN BY GUN OF PAL IDENTIFIED AS FORMER SAILOR

The "unknown" man who was killed near Decatur Sunday night when a bullet from his pal's gun lodged in his brain, has been identified by fingerprints as Lawrence Dupree, formerly a United States sailor.

His identity was established when fingerprints were checked with United States navy records, and he was found to have served two enlistments, but his address since his discharge in 1918 is not known.

Tattoo marking upon his shoulder and another of a ship upon his left leg led officers to believe that he was formerly a sailor.

He died from a wound in the head brought about when his companion, Ben Piazza, committed suicide. The bullet traveled through the head of Piazza, killing him, and then hit Dupree. They had been arrested on suspicion and were in charge of DeKalb county officers when Piazza shot himself.

SOUTH INJURED LEAST BY MARKET COLLAPSE

Eugene Black Points to Basic Soundness of Dixie Business Conditions.

Business conditions in the south are fundamentally sound and were perhaps affected less by the recent debacle in the stock market than those of any other section, according to Eugene H. Black, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta, who was guest speaker Thursday afternoon at the monthly meeting of the Atlanta Association of Building Owners and Managers.

Mr. Black qualified his optimism by saying that the country undoubtedly was in for a period of recuperation. "We have been living in an Elysian dream, in an era of profitless prosperity, for the past two or three years," he said. "Now we shall have to go to work. Our young men especially will have to go to work."

It was the history of all booms, said Mr. Black, that the collapse came suddenly. There had never been an orderly deflation.

"When you prick a bubble the air rushes out and the bubble bursts—there is nothing gradual about it," he added. "Maybe you can explain why this is. I can't. I don't see why the air wouldn't be contained to stay in the bubble instead of wanting to get outside. But it is that way."

Mr. Black said that all value came from the land, from mines, forests and crops.

"I wouldn't have believed that six weeks ago," he added, "but I am convinced of it now."

The south, he said, had been less affected by the recent stock collapse than any other part of the country, due partly to the fact that there was not as much money here as in other sections, and because southern people were more conservative and less given to speculation.

"There was nothing new in the Wall Street debacle," Mr. Black went on. "I thought that the South Sea bubble was about as far back in time as such things went, but I looked into history a bit and read about a stock boom and collapse in Italy in the year 33 that broke everybody in Rome."

The South Sea bubble had its prototypes in the Florida boom and the Wall Street orgy, Mr. Black said, when real estate sold at impossible prices and stocks paying no dividends, or very small ones, went to $500 a share.

That the debacle did not result in a great panic and ruin for everybody was due to the protective system of the federal reserve banks, Mr. Black said. Like the Bank of England during the South Sea speculation the reserve banks here issued warnings before the crash came, but those who were warned replied, "None of your business." When the crash did come the federal reserve banks furnished the sinews of war.

The south was no longer strictly an agricultural section, Mr. Black said. While its farm products were worth $10,000,000,000 its manufactured output was worth double. It was now capable of financing its own enterprises.

Charles F. Wilkerson, president of the association, presided at the meeting. B. S. Barker, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, introduced Mr. Black, and C. F. Palmer thanked him for his talk in behalf of the building owners and managers.

A national high school essay writing contest with a first prize of $500, carrying with it a $250 expense account for a trip to Washington, was announced in Georgia through Dr. M. L. Duggan, state superintendent of schools, Thursday.

The contest, open to all senior high school students, is an annual event, a memorial to the late William C. Gorgas and is sponsored by the Gorgas Memorial Institute.

The subject matter of the essay must be in relation to the work of the institute. Details may be obtained from the state superintendent of education.

High school awards of medallions, a state prize of $250, and a national prize of $500, $250 and $100 are included in the list of rewards.

DETECTIVE CHIEF SPENDS BIRTHDAY WORKING 16 HOURS

A birthday is the same as any other to Chief of Detectives A. Lamar Poole, for on Thursday—his fifty-fifth birthday—he spent the day at his desk, doing 16 well-filled hours in curtailing activities of Atlanta's crookdom.

Chief Poole has been connected with the force for 30 years, and in that length of time he has changed little physically. Joining in 1899, he tipped the scales at 185 pounds. Now, after all of these years of service, he has gained but one pound. In all this time he has had but three days off due to sickness.

He spent five years as a supernumerary and was then promoted to the rank of "roundsman." In five more years he was a captain, and in eight more he was made chief of detectives. In 1919 he was appointed first assistant chief of police.

SEEK VOLUNTEERS TO FURNISH BLOOD FOR MOTHER OF 7

A plea for persons to stand a blood transfusion test was made Thursday by relatives of Mrs. Earl Horton, of 241 Third street, mother of seven children, who is at Grady hospital, reported to be in a precarious condition, due to loss of blood.

Mrs. Horton was operated on Tuesday and since then efforts have been made to obtain a suitable applicant for blood transfusion. The blood of a number of persons tested has proven inadequate.

Ice Now Sole Handicap To All-Weather Flying, Says Colonel Henderson

T. A. T. and N. A. T. Official Speaker on Aviation Progress Before Railway Club.

Ultimate elimination of the impediments to all-weather trans-continental flying caused by ice accumulation and an increase of flying facilities in proportion to the speed with which the public takes to air passenger service were predicted Thursday by Colonel Paul Henderson, vice president of the Transcontinental Air Transport and National Air Transport. Colonel Henderson was the principal speaker before the Southern and Southwestern Railway Club meeting at the Ansley.

Ice is the only remaining handicap which flies have been unable to overcome and which, he admitted, there is now no known means of combating. He expressed confidence that the future will bring means of effective resistance. Fog trouble has virtually been eliminated by employment of radio beams which warn the pilot and enable him to hold to a charted course, he added.

Dealing principally with the evolution of commercial flying since the establishment of the first air mail line between New York and Washington ten years ago, Colonel Henderson stressed the fact that America is attempting to launch air transportation without subsidizing the service, as has been done in Europe.

Present Service.
America today has a real, national air mail service with planes covering 32,000 miles daily, two-thirds of which ships fly at night. Incidentally, he pointed out that the only European night flying is over the line from Berlin to London and there the starting hour for each night trip is 2 a. m.

Except for a detailed sketch of the trans-continental service now offered the public by lines with which he is identified, in co-operation with the Pennsylvania and Santa Fe railroads, Colonel Henderson avoided reference to sectional flying conditions. When he had concluded his talk, however, for which members of the railway club returned a rising vote of thanks, Henderson Hallman, director of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, provoked considerable applause with a contrast of ice hazards to flying in the north and west with the ideal all-weather conditions prevailing in the south. He predicted successful air passenger service in the south before the larger existing lines combat the ice risk.

Actual flying is now the smallest part of air transportation, Colonel Henderson asserted in his talk. The greater problem is ground service, the establishment of stations for passengers, of crews to handle planes landing and taking off, and of furnishing radio service to pilots from landing fields. Of every dollar now spent by the two large companies he represents, Colonel Henderson said that two-thirds went to ground service.

Municipal landing fields are gradually becoming so crowded, he said, and the variety of planes utilizing these fields so great that it has become dangerous for transport planes to land and the companies are considering the establishment of their own fields. He especially cited conditions at the Chicago field.

Rail Lines Assist.
Railroads are co-operating heartily with air lines, Colonel Henderson explained. The Pennsylvania is not only co-operating in the trans-continental service but it has become a heavy investor in the National Air Transport. The same railroad in recent weeks has sent every one of its passenger conductors on experimental trips in order to familiarize them with the service.

While this country, with 3,000 miles separating it from possible foreign entanglements, has turned over the development of commercial aeronautics to private enterprise, the menace of war caused Europe to subsidize its lines, according to Colonel Henderson's critical prophecy that the next war, if it comes, will be won in the air, it is up to America to attain air preparedness, for with it, he said, "she will become invincible."

Government co-operation has been all that could be hoped for, Colonel Henderson said in this connection, in furthering commercial flying. The postoffice department gives the lines now operating 98 per cent of their total business, lights the fields, establishes and maintains beacons, and provides an inspection and license service indispensable to successful operations.

Cause of Failures.
In his reference to ice troubles, Colonel Henderson ventured the opinion that 90 per cent of the trans-Atlantic failures have been due to this danger. Had Lindbergh been foul of ice accumulation 30 minutes longer, when he flew to Paris in 1927, the story would have been like that of the 90 per cent who have failed to make it.

Preceding Colonel Henderson's address to the club, D. C. Buell, director of the Railway Education Bureau, delivered an address on the "Modernization of Men."

Officers for the ensuing year, elected Thursday, are:
President, F. S. Robins, superintendent motive power, Florida East Coast railway; first vice president, C. L. Dickett, superintendent motive power, Central of Georgia; second vice president, F. W. Douglas, master mechanic, Atlanta Joint Terminal station; third vice president, A. W. Kirland, superintendent motive power, A. E. & C. railway; secretary, A. T. Miller, assistant superintendent motive power, A. & W. P. railway; and treasurer, George E. Watts, of the Timeken-Detroit Axle Company, of Atlanta.

MAYOR CALLS CITY TO RENDER THANKS FOR YEARS' GIFTS

Mayor I. N. Ragsdale Thursday issued a proclamation calling on Atlantans to observe November 23 as Thanksgiving Day to return thanks to the "Great Giver for the bounties that we enjoy."

Text of the proclamation follows: "Whereas, Thursday, November 23, is Thanksgiving Day, proclaimed according to annual custom as a national holiday, set apart for prayer and thanksgiving; and

"Whereas, There is manifest upon every hand abundant cause for returning thanks to the Great Giver for the bounties that we enjoy; and, "Whereas, We are abundantly favored as a nation, as individual states and as subdivisions thereof. In Atlanta we are blest with many causes for thankfulness. All lines of business and industry are sound and productive and we are going forward in constructive endeavors. Our city as a whole is enjoying a period of satisfactory prosperity. Our people in very great majority look upon the present with satisfaction and view the future with contentment. We are living in peace and the uninterrupted enjoyment of our possessions; and,

"Whereas, It is fitting that our populace pause a day from regular pursuits to render special reverence for the spiritual and temporal blessings that we have received.
"Therefore, I suggest and urge that our people generally join observance of Thanksgiving, gathering in their homes and usual places of worship to give expression to their gratitude for the benefits and blessings that the Gracious Giver has bestowed and invoke a continuation of His favor.
"Given under my hand this November 21, 1929.
"I. N. RAGSDALE, Mayor."

Sacred Harp Singers.
The Atlanta class of Sacred Harp Singers has accepted an invitation to sing at East Point Primitive Baptist church, at 1:30 o'clock, p. m., Sunday, it is announced. It will be the second appearance there of the class.

'REBELLION' CHARGES DISMISSED BY JUDGE

Court Grants Defense Plea in Trial of Carolina Strikers.

MARION, N. C., Nov. 21.—(AP)—Granting a defense motion for non-unit, Judge G. V. Cowper today freed Alfred Hoffman, organizer for the United Textile Workers of America, and four Marion men of charges of insurrection and rebellion brought against them as the result of textile strike disorders.

The motion was lodged late yesterday, the eleventh day of their trial, when the state rested its case after presenting numerous witnesses to connect the defendants with the disorders. Judge Cowper held the story of the various disturbances, as told by the state, did not warrant the charge, a felony.

Hoffman, Wes Fowler, Del Lewis and Lawrence Hogan, defendants, still have charges of rioting and resisting an officer against them. Judge Cowper ordered a special venire of 100 men called from Burke, an adjoining county, from which a jury will be selected for their trial. The trial will begin tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

Hoffman and the defendants who went on trial jointly with him were indicted for insurrection and rebellion before the October 2 riot and it was not brought into the testimony against them.

The deputies indicted for murder will be tried at Burnsville, December 9.

MEETING TO DECIDE COUNTY SALARIES MAY BE POSTPONED

Possibility that the salary-fixing meeting of the Fulton county commission, scheduled for this afternoon, will be called off until early next week was seen Thursday night in view of the fact that the funeral of Fire Chief W. B. Cody is to be held this afternoon.

Edward H. Inman, chairman of the finance committee of the commission, is a pallbearer for Chief Cody's funeral, and other members of the commission have expressed their wish to attend the rites in tribute to Chief Cody. Chairman Paul S. Etheridge was out of the city Thursday night, but is expected to return today.

Although requested to do so by the commission, none of the former fee officers have filed the salary schedules for their departments for 1930. It is understood that several of the department heads have written the commission letters asking that the salary schedule of this year be continued in effect and that the proposed 10 per cent cut not be carried out.

W. C. SATERWHITE TRIAL IN ASSAULT CASE IS NEAR END

Testimony of defense witnesses began late Thursday afternoon in the case of W. C. Satterwhite, coal dealer, who is charged with criminal assault upon an 11-year-old girl. The case is expected to reach the jury tonight. It began Thursday morning in Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy's division of Fulton superior court.

The majority of the witnesses to be called today by the defense are character witnesses, and include a number of prominent businessmen, physicians, ministers and a superior court judge.

FORMER OFFICER IS FINED BY JUDGE IN CONTEMPT CASE

Charged with contempt of court because, it was alleged, he took his car out of J. P. Bonner's garage at 151 Pryor street, S. W., after municipal court bailiffs had levied on it, R. F. Craig, former city policeman, Thursday was fined $100 by Judge Luther Z. Rosser, of municipal court of Atlanta.

RECORDERS COURT CALLS OFF SESSION FOR CODY FUNERAL

The regular afternoon session of recorder's court will not be held today, in deference to the funeral services for Chief Cody, it was announced Thursday by Recorder J. W. Callo-way. All cases that are slated to be heard this afternoon will be continued until tomorrow morning, when they will be given hearing.

E. W. GUNN ELECTED

Fills Unexpired Term of H. G. Hicks, Resigned.

E. W. Gunn, of 504 Washington street, was elected president of the Second Ward Improvement Association at a meeting Wednesday night at Georgia Avenue school. Mr. Gunn will complete the unexpired term of H. G. Hicks, who recently resigned as president, after removing to another section of the city.

The first of three resolutions passed at the meeting petitioned council to extend the white way on Georgia Avenue for three blocks from Capitol Avenue to Pryor street. This action of council, it was pointed out, would give a white way for the entire six blocks from Capitol Avenue to Pryor street. Three blocks on Capitol Avenue which are in the third ward, already have lights installed.

A second resolution indorsed the demand of the Atlanta Woman's Civic Council for an audit made of the city warden's books.

Council was petitioned in a third resolution to have a white way installed around the entire new city hall block.

Abolition of State Tax On Real Estate Advocated At Realtors' Convention

Constructive Taxation
Program Is Urged by Ward Wight, President of Georgia Association.

MACON, Ga., Nov. 21.—(AP)—Discontinuation of a state tax on real estate, advocated by President Ward Wight, of Atlanta, and a "home town" oratorical stunt tonight were high spots in the opening day's session of the convention of the Georgia Real Estate Association today.

Election of officers will be the principal business before the convention Friday. The annual banquet will be held at the Hotel Dempsey at 8 o'clock Friday night.

One of the chief addresses for Friday will be made by Orelle A. Park, Macon, general counsel for the Georgia Bankers' Association, his subject being "Taxation."

Following the banquet the convention will come to a close with a dance at the Idle Hour Club.

President Wight offered suggestions for the coming year and spoke of the work that had been done in obtaining legislation affecting taxation.

"There should be no state tax against real property," said Mr. Wight. "There should only be a nominal recording tax against mortgages and there should be a reasonable taxation levy against intangibles."

Although he said progress was made in legislation this year, the result of the recent legislature's action in strengthening "the license commission work," was characterized as "not entirely satisfactory to us from a standpoint of a fair and just system of taxation."

Mr. Wight incorporated the same ideas in his suggestions for the coming year in which he urged a constructive state taxation program; a relief for real estate from the heavy burden of city taxation; the inclusion of more educational courses in the local board's programs and standard appraisal courses.

Sees Bright Future.

In reviewing the present situation of farming and industry, the state president saw the beginning of a number of years of solid, substantial growth and increased real estate activity," which, he said, it behooved realtors to take advantage of.

Lincoln McConnell, Jr., manager of the Macon Chamber of Commerce, spoke of the industrial prospects of Georgia, giving the results of his investigations of the subject.

"My advice to the realtor would be to encourage industrial investment locally and not to look for a manufacturing plant to come from elsewhere to establish a plant," said Mr. McConnell. The figures of the last five years show that 81 per cent of the new industries started in this country were started by local people. Only 8.4 per cent of the new industries moved into the locality from another section and a large proportion of these were branch factories.

In the afternoon session D. J. Carrison, Bolingbroke, spoke on farm lands and brought a rising vote of appreciation for "his splendid address" by the convention.

"The trouble with farming is not in the land," Mr. Carrison pointed out, "but in the methods of operation. The farm has got to be modernized as this is the only way the costs of production can be cut down."

"I would like to make one suggestion to the real estate man," said Mr. Carrison, "that when they go home they select a progressive young man, and back him with a tractor and the necessary implements and see to it that he carries out a modern program of farming and it will be the biggest agricultural advertisement you can make."

Paul Meredith Speaks.

Paul C. Meredith, Orlando, executive secretary of the Florida Association of Real Estate Boards, spoke on the obstacles to real estate sales.

"The greatest obstacle to real estate sales," he said, "is not either real estate salesmen but everyone else. Stocks and bonds, radios, electric refrigerators sold on time and other ready investments appeal because they are not taxed."

The last talk of the afternoon was that of Harry Pascal, Atlanta, who spoke of incorrect appraisal as the basis of the large number of foreclosures. He foresaw the elimination of the mortgage broker from the loan business on account of insurance companies placing loans through company representatives.

Mr. Pascal also emphasized the need of better laws governing mortgages and said that the holder of a second mortgage was not adequately protected under the existing laws.

C. P. Rowland, Savannah, spoke briefly of the present favorable situation in real estate. Investments were more likely now, he said, following the stock market changes and he cited individual experiences in Florida which showed that things were in a healthy condition there.

James Drake, president of the Alabama Association of Real Estate Boards and a director in the national association, was an honor guest and replied briefly to his introduction. A. W. Lucky, Atlanta, and Scott Nixon, Augusta, viewed taxation as the greatest problem facing the realtors today.

MANGEL'S TO OPEN NEW STORE TONIGHT

Public Will Inspect Peachtree Shop From 7 to 9.

Mangel's new store at 201 Peach-tree street, a distinct addition to the fast-growing shopping district in that section of Atlanta, will be formally opened tonight between 7 and 9 o'clock, at which time the public is invited to inspect the place. The store will be open for business Saturday.

This will be the second store established here by Mangel's chain, the first at 60 Whitehall street, having opened on February 29, 1917. The additional store was decided on as a result of the response that the shop on Whitehall street received, according to the management of the company.

Frank A. Crasnow, district manager for the states of Georgia, Tennessee and Alabama, will continue in this capacity, it is announced, and will maintain his headquarters at the Whitehall street store. Mr. Crasnow says that the growth of business in the store during its 12 years here has been remarkable.

The new store will be one of the outstanding shops for misses' and women's ready-to-wear in Atlanta, both from the standpoint of merchandise and the finish and equipment of the shop. Its fixtures throughout are of walnut and maple. The interior fixtures and window design represent the very latest creations. The entrance is particularly attractive, being finished in carved glass, both in black and crystal. Unique aluminum lighting effects are obtained in both the windows and the interior. Lighting fixtures are modernistic in design.

J. Weitzman will be manager of the new store. He comes to Atlanta from St. Louis, and has held high connections with some of the women's ready-to-wear houses in both that city and Chicago, which will particularly fit him for the position as manager here.

Through the tremendous buying power of the chain, it is claimed by the management, the finest quality merchandise and latest styles are offered at moderate prices. This feature is taken as the principal reason for the growth and popularity of the establishment in Atlanta.

The entire stock of the new store has been received fresh from the manufacturers and includes the latest novelties in lingerie and hosiery for the demands of the Christmas shoppers in addition to an exclusive line of ready-to-wear and dresses suitable for all occasions.

SHOWMANSHIP IN ADS SEEN AS ESSENTIAL

Speaking on the importance of showmanship in advertising, Mrs. Anna Aiken Patterson, owner, editor and publisher of the Weekly Film Review, the only regional film trade paper in the south, addressed the Advertising Club Thursday at its regular weekly luncheon at the Piedmont hotel.

Mrs. Patterson displayed a keen knowledge of advertising, not only as applied to the theaters, but various other lines as well. She said that showmanship was coming more and more into play in advertising copy, and pointed out the importance of newspapers as advertising media.

"Theaters concentrate on newspaper advertising," Mrs. Patterson said, "most of them buying space every day in the year, and practically all of the major houses employ men solely to prepare advertising copy."

In the absence of E. V. Dunbar, Herbert Porter presided as chairman. Miss Leonora Anderson was in charge of the program, and announced the appointment of E. V. Hungerford as chairman of the committee on reservations for the Advertising Club Follies, which will be held on December 5. Stanley V. MacArthur was appointed chairman of "props" for the show.

The club will not meet next week in view of Thanksgiving falling on the day the luncheon is regularly held.

MOONEY APPEAL GIVEN TO CALIFORNIA BOARD

Governor Young Turns Case Over to Official Group.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Nov. 21.—(AP)—As a step toward determining the truth in the pardon appeal of Thomas J. Mooney, convicted of the 1916 Preparedness Day bombing in San Francisco, Governor C. C. Young announced today he was referring the case to the advisory pardon board for investigation and recommendation. In his appeal Mooney asserts his innocence.

The governor said that he was taking this step as an aid toward an early determination of the real facts in the case.

"Although it has been the announced policy," he said, "of the governor's office to submit to this board all prison cases which are regarded as sufficiently deserving to merit careful consideration, I have hitherto not done so in this instance, hoping that I might reach a definite conclusion in my own mind and thus avoid taking any action which might tend to delay a final decision."

The governor made it plain that in asking the pardon board to consider the case, he was not shifting responsibility from his shoulders. "I am satisfied that the public is earnestly desirous of a final determination as to the cases of Mooney and Billings," he said. "It was that determination at the earliest possible moment but above all, it desires the determination to be a correct one. For that reason I have been repeatedly urged to appoint a commission of impartial and outstanding men to investigate and report on the cases, in order that the final decision might be based upon something more conclusive than the results of a study of one individual. While I recognize the value of this suggestion I have never felt the need of such an extra legal body since in California a final determination set up by statute for this express purpose, as well as the supreme court in cases of persons twice convicted of felony."

Mooney and Warren K. Billings are serving life sentences in connection with the bombing.

Haywood District Officer Arrested In Gypsy Slaying

WAYCROSS, Ga., Nov. 21.—(Special.)—Ellis Edfield, a constable of the Haywood district of Ware county, alleged to have shot and killed Nicholas Adams, a gypsy, near here last Sunday, has been placed under arrest and is being held in the Ware county jail here awaiting a preliminary hearing. He voluntarily gave himself up to Sheriff L. C. Warren after being informed by telephone that a warrant had been sworn out by Mary Adams, wife of the slain gypsy.

Edfield, contrary to reports here, is not a deputy sheriff and is connected in no way with the sheriff's office. It was stated today by Sheriff Warren, who is a constable with jurisdiction only in the Haywood district.

Adams, a typical member of the gypsy race, had stopped by the roadside 12 miles north of Waycross, on federal route No. 1, Sunday afternoon, to fix an automobile tire, according to officers, and when ordered by Edfield to move on, a quarrel ensued. Edfield shot Adams in the stomach, from close range, and then was attacked by the wounded man. Adams used an automobile crank, it is said, inflicting injuries that necessitated Edfield being placed under the care of physicians. He was attended by the county physician today after being placed under arrest. Adams died in a Waycross hospital Tuesday.

According to the story told by Edfield, the gypsies were creating a disturbance in the neighborhood of Newnan Rowland, where Mr. Rowland's father was critically ill. When the gypsies refused to leave, Mr. Rowland called for the services of Constable Edfield, and when the constable issued orders for them to "move on," the gypsies opened an attack, striking the officer. Edfield claims he shot in self-defense. Adams resisting arrest.

Adams' remains will be sent to Cleveland, Ohio, relatives having arrived here today to complete arrangements. His mother, Marie Adams, and a brother, George Adams, both of Steubenville, Ohio, are here. He is survived also by four small children, who were with him at the time of the fatal shooting.

FORD WILL INCREASE PAY OF ALL WORKERS

Auto Magnate Gives Views of Causes of Market Crash.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Henry Ford wrote his own prescription today for improving business conditions by announcing an immediate general increase in the wages of his many thousands of employees over the country.

Visiting Washington at the invitation of President Hoover, he sat in on a three hours' conference of industrial leaders at the White House and then issued a previously prepared statement of what he thought ought to be done to counteract the stock market fall.

Then rushing uptown for a hasty lunch, he returned to the White House for a brief talk with the president and as he was getting into his light overcoat before starting back home he stallingly made his wage increase announcement to a couple of inquiring White House newspaper reporters.

Let Ticker Alone.

"We are going to increase the basic wage scale of our employees," the automobile manufacturer blandly announced. "Why?" He was asked. "How much?"

"Oh, it will be general." "Will it be as much as 10 per cent.?" "We know the amount, but it has to be worked out in detail. But we are increasing wages. That's plain enough," he said.

Mr. Ford had given wage increases as one remedy in the prepared statement which he and his secretary distributed at the White House after the general business conference.

He also had some other remedies for the situation. One was that business brains get back on the job and let the stock ticker alone. Another was lower prices for commodities.

"Nearly everything in this country is too highly priced," Mr. Ford observed.

The only thing that should be high priced in this country is the man who works," he added. "Wages must not come down, they must even stay on their present level; they must go up."

No Plants Closing.

"And even that is not sufficient of itself. We must see to it that the increased wages are not taken away from our people by increased prices that do not represent increased values. The country gets no benefit from letting the working man earn an extra hundred dollars and then taking it away from him again in increased rents and a rise in prices generally. To make wages better, and to keep prices down requires that business men come back into business—as many are doing since the stocks came down."

The 66-year-old manufacturer was in fine fettle and greeted the other business men here for the White House conference in jovial mood. The outlook for business appeared the least of his worries.

Asked about reports that his Kansas City plant had been closed Mr. Ford said:

"Oh, I thought it was the Denver plant they were closing up," he said, making it clear that the "they" referred to the originators of the reports.

"You know we closed the Washington plant for two or three days a couple of weeks ago but we didn't hear much about that," he added, as he smilingly dismissed the reports of general curtailment of activities in his factories.

Only Slight Depression.

"Collapse of speculation may have been the occasion of a business hesitation," Mr. Ford continued, "but it certainly was not the cause."

"The stock market does not make prosperity but prosperity is absolutely essential to such an inflation of values as we have seen during the past year. When an inflated stock market breaks, it does not necessarily carry general business down with it, but when general business declines it invariably deflates the artificial values of the stock market."

"That is what happened. It was only the temporary diversion of business men's attention that prevented them from seeing what was happening. It is now clear to all that the real explanation of the present situation is not to be found in recent stock market history but in recent business history."

"There's no startling, miraculous plan of recovery and advance; it is still as plain and familiar as a copy book maxim. The situation promises much better than it did a year ago. We were on the threshold of a necessary change anyhow, and if some men stumbled when they crossed it, it was only because their eyes were elsewhere. A year ago the country was expecting something to happen; now that it is over and past, the road ahead is clear."

"President Hoover's call for a conference has had the beneficial effect of focusing our eyes on the main question. The president will be able to show the country that there is nothing to fear and that if everyone will attend to his own work the future will be secure."

Characters Dear To Youngsters Shown in Skits

BY HELEN AND OLIVE PARISH.

Uncle Remus, King Arthur, the Mad Hatter, Huckleberry Finn, and innumerable other children-beloved literary characters were portrayed Wednesday afternoon at the Carnegie library in a series of "fanciful" presentations given by pupils of Atlanta's six grades.

Better Book Week is being observed by the school children under direction of Miss Josie Slocombe, a superintendent of Atlanta's elementary education, by presentation of a series of short plays at 3 o'clock each afternoon at the library.

"Alice in Wonderland," the skit put on by Ragsdale school, was undoubtedly the most finished production. The ears of the little doormouse. The lengthy, straw-draped, circular appendages of the March hare, and the Mad Hatter's top-hat comprised the principal costumes. No conception of the intrinsic excellence of Lewis Carroll's dialogue can be formed until one has seen a portion of his child-classic dramatized.

Vigorous and convincing action was presented by pupils of the Croft school in their rendition of scenes from "Tom Sawyer." The realistic way in which the children do stage-acts, bury dead cats, kill one another, chase each other about haunted houses—all these are effectively put across.

A representation of Uncle Remus by a pupil in Smilie school, was admirable. The make-up of the old darky, his slouching walk, his frizzly white hair, and his story, gave a perfect picture of the character of the immortal creation.

HAD SUFFERED 25 LONG YEARS, SAYS GEORGIA WOMAN

Mrs. Laird Says Stomach Had To Be Pumped Out Twice a Week—Sargon Again Scores Triumph.

"I'm perfectly amazed at the way this new Sargon treatment overcame my troubles. I'd been suffering with for twenty-five years," said Mrs. N. M. Laird, 488 Boulevard, S. E., Atlanta.

MRS. N. M. LAIRD.

In conversation with the Sargon representative at Jacobs' Pharmacy, 14 Marietta St., recently.

"I used to have the most terrible attacks of indigestion and acid indigestion," continued Mrs. Laird. "For months at the time I've had to have my stomach pumped out twice a week, and finally I got to the point where I couldn't retain anything except raw eggs. A rheumatic condition developed in my knee joints and at times I couldn't bend my right knee to walk and just had to drag my foot along. Then I began to get in and the pains would catch me until I could scarcely get up or down. A sluggish liver brought on biliousness and headaches and I was compelled to dose myself with strong laxatives every night on account of constipation. I lost weight and became weak almost to the point of exhaustion; and my nerves were in such a frightful condition I never slept well. I tried all kinds of medicines and treatments but I didn't seem to get any better. My mother had been taking Sargon with wonderful results and she persuaded me to buy a treatment."

"I have never in my life taken a medicine that brought results like Sargon. The change it brought over my whole system was simply remarkable! I eat anything I want now and every sign of indigestion and stomach trouble has completely disappeared. My rheumatic and lumbago pains have left me; my nerves are back to normal and I sleep like a healthy child. I've gained thirteen pounds, I'm alert and energetic and haven't enjoyed such splendid health in twenty-five years."

"The Sargon Pills toned up my liver and put an end to my biliousness and headaches; and one of the greatest blessings is I'm not constipated in the least now."

"All my friends remark about my wonderful improvement—I really do feel like a new person and will gladly tell anyone more about what this marvelous Sargon treatment did for me."

The Sargon Man is at Jacobs' Main Store, 14 Marietta St., where he is meeting the public daily and explaining the merits of this remarkable new medicine. Sargon may be obtained at all Jacobs' Drug Stores throughout Atlanta.—(adv.)

Georgia Forest Fair Is Opened At Valdosta

VALDOSTA, Ga., Nov. 21.—(Special.)—The annual Georgia Forest Fair was auspiciously launched here today with addresses by B. M. Luff, burrow, state forester of Georgia, and George Carswell, secretary of state, representing the Georgia board of forestry, featuring the program.

The speakers said that the exhibits at the fair constituted one of the greatest expositions of its kind ever held in the state. Government, states, lumber and forestry associations, naval stores, schools and commercial concerns are offering a remarkable array of interesting exhibits. Southern pines and their products are being featured.

An important phase of the fair are demonstrations in tree planting, thinning, firebreak construction and improved methods of chipping pines for turpentine.

The fair is scheduled to run three days. Saturday will be observed as naval stores day.

RUSSIA'S FIRST TALKING MOVIE PROVES SUCCESS

MOSCOW, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Russia's first talking movie was given a showing to the public today on a program with American talking films.

After a number of the American pictures had been run through, the Russian film was put on for comparison with them. The critics and scientists present said that it was as good as the American films, especially in clarity and volume of tone.

The Soviet cinema trust is preparing to open 20 talking movie theaters, one of which will specialize in talks produced in the government's five-year industrialization program.

Gamblers Tell of Rothstein Losses in High Stake Poker Shortly Before His Murder

Say McManus, on Trial, Was Not Bothered by $50,000 Loss—Doctor Weakens Case.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP)—The parade of the big-time gamblers, in a soft-spoken gent; to whom the loss of $50,000 in a stud poker game is nothing to get excited about, began today in the trial of George McManus for the murder of Arnold Rothstein.

Matter-of-fact, at times with dry humor, and always deferential in their attitude toward the prosecutor, they described a 22-hour session of stud poker at the home of Jimmy Meehan one Saturday night and Sunday in September, 1920, in which, they said, Rothstein lost $200,000.

In their account of this party, the state had announced it hoped to find a motive that would drive McManus, race track bookie, to shoot the overlord of the New York gambling world in a room at the Park Central hotel the night of November 4, 1920.

The state, outlining its case to the jury earlier in the day, said it had a witness who would place McManus in that room 10 minutes before an other witness heard a "bang" and saw Rothstein stagger into the corridor, bent almost double and clutching his abdomen. The state also had evidence, it said, that two bottles of whiskey had been drunk in that room that afternoon by McManus and others. Jimmy Meehan, host at the stud poker party, Martin "Red" Rowe, who testified that his participation cost him $5,000, and little, swarthy Sam Solomonson, better known as Sam Boston, one of the Boston brothers, "who take their nickname from the town whence they came, testified this afternoon.

Their composite stories revealed that Rothstein lost $200,000, but that he gave "I. O. U.'s," having in the meantime scooped up and pocketed all the cash that was his whenever he happened to win a pot. Indeed, they said, although he was badly "in the hole" on paper, he must actually have had considerable cash when the party finally broke up.

McManus, the defendant, they said, was the loser—of $50,000, which he paid mostly in cash, right on the spot. But McManus, according to the testimony of Rowe and Sam Boston, would have been the last person in the world to worry over a $50,000 poker loss. It was "almost an everyday occurrence," Rowe said, for McManus to lose that much on a single horse race.

"Nigger Nate" Thompson (whose real name is Alvin C. Thompson), the witness whose illness in Milwaukee delayed the trial a week, was also a winner—but not so high as Raymond. All "Titanic" got, they said, was $20,000 to $25,000.

The autopsy surgeon gave the most pointed testimony, perhaps. He was Dr. Charles Norris, medical examiner for the department of health, who performed the autopsy and told in home-ly phrases, mixed inconspicuously with medical terms, how a single bullet wound was found in Rothstein's abdomen and how it caused his death.

On cross-examination the defense made its first major revelation of what it will contend when it wrung from Dr. Norris an admission that it would be exceedingly difficult for a man in the state of mind in which Rothstein was found to walk 150 feet down a hotel corridor, through three sets of swinging doors and down three flights of stairs. He would be suffering from severe shock and in great pain, Norris admitted. The importance of this is the possible doubt it casts on the state's contention that Rothstein was shot in a room on the third floor of the Park Central hotel and walked to the service door on the ground floor after he was wounded.

The big money—or "I. O. U." slips in lieu of cash—began changing hands, Rowe testified late Sunday afternoon, "when the game began to slow up and needed a little excitement."

Jimmy Meehan, the host, slim, dark-eyed, and apparently several years younger than the rest of them, was not present when that happened. He'd gone to a baseball game, he returned from the game about 6 o'clock, he said, and went to bed. When he awoke some hours later, the party had broken up, and the guests had gone home.

But Rowe was there through it all and sat through to the end, except for times when he "got all tired out and lay down and slept for a few hours."

Both McManus and the judge laughed at one point today. Assistant District Attorney Ferdinand Pecora had asked Rowe to tell the jury how side bets are placed in a stud poker game. Rowe, with an expression of bewilderment and genuine distress on his face, said:

"If you'd only give me a deck of cards, I could show 'em better."

Answering with alacrity questions put to them by James M. C. Murray, McManus' attorney, all three, who said they had been friends of both Rothstein and McManus for years, said they saw no indication of ill feeling between the two men during the two months that elapsed between the poker party and Rothstein's death.

All three said they saw Rothstein and McManus together almost every night during those weeks in Lindy's restaurant, the Broadway cafe whence Rothstein that Sunday night was called to the Park Central hotel and his death.

"Why, they ate lunch together all the time," said Rowe. McManus smiled at that, and back in the courtroom his five brothers, Jim, Steve, Tom, Charlie and Frank—who all look alike and all look like Brother George—smiled too. McManus' wife, an attractive and simply dressed young woman, and his sister also attended the trial today for the first time.

SAVANNAH C. OF C. OPENS FORWARD MOVEMENT DRIVE

SAVANNAH, Ga., Nov. 21.—(AP)—The first day's effort of the Chamber of Commerce campaign in raising an annual fund of $100,000 for three years to properly budget the work for the advancement of the city industrially, netted a total of $52,450.

Confidence emanated tonight from the forward movement headquarters that the total fund would be subscribed by tomorrow night. The report submitted today was that compiled up to 2 o'clock this afternoon. With 501 workers canvassing the city for subscriptions to the newly combined Chamber of Commerce and working all day tomorrow up to the night dinner, Colonel A. B. Lawson, general chairman in charge, expressed the opinion that Savannah would make the grade by dark tomorrow.

The campaign started this morning with principally every whistle in the city and its environs blowing for five minutes at 8:30 o'clock. This brought the 501 workers into Johnson Square in the downtown business and financial district, ready to start the day's job. Artillery guns added to the noise, and the "Big Duke," the old fire bell on top of fire headquarters, tolled out its big, low sound with the rest of the noise.

Big business men and those of more moderate circumstances have joined together to put over the campaign. The projects included in the budget are to be the industrial committee work, Chamber of Commerce operation of office bureau, convention and tourist work, and development of the port.

Two New Air Passenger Lines Planned Through Georgia to Miami Next Year

Prudden, of Atlanta Aircraft.

Announcement that plans have been completed for inauguration next year of two air transport passenger lines through Georgia to Miami was coupled Thursday by Colonel Paul Henderson, vice president of Transcontinental Air Transport and former assistant postmaster-general, with the declaration that Candler Field is an excellent airport and is ample for Atlanta's needs during the next few years.

Colonel Henderson, during his visit carries 12 passengers, the Curtiss Condor 18 and the new Fokker 32. The lines will be operated by Pittman Aviation, Inc., Colonel Henderson said.

Atlanta planes will leave Candler field at 9:30 a. m. and reach Miami about 3:30 p. m. while Washington ships will leave at 9 a. m. and reach Miami about 4:30 p. m. these schedules enabling passengers reaching Atlanta in the morning by train to be in Miami the same afternoon.

Routes for the two lines, landing fields, shops, ground equipment and operations staff have been decided upon tentatively and inauguration of the service awaits only the decision as to the best time to begin operations, Colonel Henderson said.

In speaking of Candler Field Colonel Henderson said:

"The local airport will be an excellent one as soon as the present program of work is completed, the approaches are good, and the surfaces are not at all bad. Candler Field seems to be adequately lighted, though I saw it in the daytime and judged solely from the number and position of lights. The hangars are properly located."

Instead of deserving criticism, Candler Field should receive praise, Colonel Henderson said. "The field is ample in size for any plane made today. The runways are 2,500 feet or longer at present, and when the fill is completed, they will be longer than 3,000 feet, with one at least 3,000 feet long. The average modern transport plane can get off easily in 1,000 feet, with plenty of space left on Candler Field for a forced landing if the motor fails as the ship leaves the ground."

Let the business grow and just keep ahead of it, Colonel Henderson advised Atlanta. "The field should be constructed so as to be suited to the city's needs. Candler Field is adequate to serve Atlanta for the next few years."

Senor Rafael Ybor To Head Good-Will Party From Cuba

In the absence of the president of Cuba, Senor Rafael Martinez Ybor, high official of the department of state, will officially represent the republic of Cuba on the good-will tour to Atlanta in December, according to a cable received Thursday by Harry O. Mitchell, in charge of the local district office of the federal department of commerce.

Invitations to meet the good-will party while they are in Atlanta were sent Thursday to President Hoover and Major General Charles P. Summerall, chief of staff of the United States army.

In addition to Senor Martinez Ybor the party will include Mayor Miguel Mariano Gomez of Havana, and Governor Antonio Ruiz, of the Province of Havana.

Thursday morning will be devoted to a sightseeing trip to Emory University, Stone Mountain, Agnes Scott college, the federal prison and the Georgia Military academy. Luncheon will be served at G. M. A. after which the corps of cadets will be reviewed by the Cubans. Governor Hardman and Mrs. Hardman will receive for the visitors from 3 until 4:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon. That night a banquet will be tendered the party downtown.

There will be additional sightseeing Friday, including a trip to Georgia Tech, Oglethorpe University and the Coca-Cola Company's plant. Friday night at 7 o'clock the football game between G. M. A. and the Havana Athletic Club will be played at Grant field. The basketball game between G. M. A. and the Havana Yacht Club will be played Wednesday night in the Georgia Tech gymnasium.

Colonel J. C. Woodward, president of Georgia Military academy and general chairman of the tour, was in receipt Thursday of a letter from the president of the United States, in which the president had ordered the selection of 40 army cadets from Cuba's West Point, who will accompany the tour in full uniform. Colonel Woodward communicated immediately with Senator William J. Harris to request that special permission be given for their admission to the United States bearing arms.

With these additions to the large delegation of leading Cuban citizens, this city will witness a reception unique in its history when they arrive at the Terminal station December 4. The entire student body of Georgia Military academy, consisting of approximately 300 young men in full dress uniform, will be ordered to the station to receive the incoming trainloads of Cubans.

A special called meeting of the chairmen of all committees will be held this morning in the office of Colonel F. J. Paxon, chairman of the finance committee, in Davidson-Paxon department store, for the purpose of discussing plans for sale of tickets to the games.

DR. RAFAEL YBOR WILL HEAD CUBANS.

HAVANA, Nov. 21.—(P)—Dr. Rafael Martinez Ybor, honorary consul general of Cuba and chief of the Cuban state department bureau of publicity and information, today was designated by his government to act in official capacity with Havana's organizing committee for planning a "good will" trek to Atlanta next month.

The appointment of Dr. Ybor was made upon the unanimous request of six members of the Atlanta excursion organizing committee.

His labors will be to arrange with the Cuban consuls at Key West, Jacksonville and Atlanta for the reception of the 200 or more Cubans expected to make the trip, beginning December 3, for the international athletic meets between Havana's Yacht and Athletic Clubs and Georgia Military academy.

Assurance has been obtained from the Havana Yacht Club that the en-

MEETING DATES SET FOR PRESS INSTITUTE

February 20-21 will be the dates of the 1936 Georgia Press Institute, to be held in Atlanta at Emory University. It was decided Thursday by the institute committee of the Georgia Press Association, which sponsors the program.

"The committee has decided to confine the institute to two days, instead of three, in the hope that the entire staff of every weekly paper in Georgia may be able to attend," explained Louis L. Morris, editor of the Well-Sun and president of the Georgia Press Association, in announcing the dates.

Thursday and Friday are the days of the week selected because many of the weekly editors have indicated that they can go to press on Wednesday afternoon, attend the meeting in Atlanta on Thursday and Friday and return to their offices in time to close up the week's work on Saturday.

Members of the institute committee are Mark R. Briggs, Macon Telegraph, chairman; Hugh Rowe, Athens Journal-Herald; Professor John E. Drewry, of the University of Georgia; Professor R. B. Nixon, of Emory University, and Mr. Morris.

Representatives of the three Atlanta dailies are co-operating with the committee in arranging the program. Two outstanding journalists of the country will be among the speakers.

W. & A. COMMISSION WILL MEET TODAY TO DISCUSS LEASE

The Western & Atlantic railroad commission will meet at 10 o'clock this morning in the office of Governor L. G. Hardman to continue its negotiations with the United States Cold Storage Warehouse company for leasing the Union depot property.

The meeting was called last week by Chairman C. Murphy Candler, at the conclusion of a conference with officials of the warehouse company and the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis railroad, at which details of the contract of lease were threshed out.

Piles Go Quick

Without Salves or Cutting

Thousands who have piles have not learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with internal medicine. Neither cutting nor any amount of treatment with ointments and suppositories will remove the cause.

Bad circulation causes piles. There is a complete stagnation of blood in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts. Dr. J. S. Leonard found the remedy and called his prescription HEM-ROID. He tried it in 1,000 cases with the marvelous record of success in 96 per cent, and then decided it should be sold by druggists everywhere under a rigid money-back guarantee.

Don't waste any more time with outside applications. Get a package of HEM-ROID from Jacobs' Drug Stores today. It has given safe and lasting relief to thousands and will do the same for you, or costs you nothing.—(adv.)

DAUGHTER SICK, GOVERNOR COMES BACK TO ATLANTA

Governor L. G. Hardman, who had planned to be out of the city for several days, returned unexpectedly because of the illness of his daughter, Josephine.

Governor Hardman previously had cancelled all engagements for the remainder of the week, including emergency hearings, which usually are held Thursdays. The next emergency hearings are scheduled for two weeks from Thursday, as Thursday of next week is Thanksgiving Day.

Miss Hardman's illness was reported not to be serious.

Mr. Gibson succeeds Judge Colquitt, who resigned recently, due to the press of private business.

OFFICERS AT FORT WEAR MOURNING BADGES FOR GOOD

All officers at Fort McPherson today are wearing badges of mourning in tribute to the memory of Secretary of War James W. Good.

The badges of mourning were placed upon the sleeves of all officers at the local fort Wednesday, when it was learned that the order had been issued. They are worn not only upon the left sleeve of coat or overcoat, but upon sashes as well, and will be so exhibited for the period of a month.

Lowman Juggles Underlings In Desperate Effort To Check Flow of Liquor Into Capital

Echo of Washington's Many Recent "Scandals" Heard in Latest Move of Administrator.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—(AP)—The shakeup designed to diminish the inflow of liquor which senators have charged appears to be the alcoholic appetite of Washington occurred today—John F. J. Herbert being transferred as prohibition administrator at Baltimore for this district to the ninth district with headquarters at Helena, Mont.

were based on the belief that Washington was entirely too wet. Meanwhile attention was being given to the declaration in Peoria, Ill., by Federal Judge Fitzhugh that persons who buy liquor and do not report the fact to authorities are felons under the Jones law. The department of justice is studying whether liquor purchasers are criminals, with a view to asking the supreme court for a ruling on the question. The department answered differently by federal judges in several states.

Be liquor drinkers culpable or not, the capital has been seething more and more recently over the case with which strong drink is procurable and senate attention has been directed to the situation.

Senator Brookhart, of Iowa, brought up the matter of drinking by legislators with an expose of a "Wall Street booze party" to senators in 1926. But the inquisitors took no action.

In another case, however, the grand jury returned an indictment charging Representative Denison, of Illinois, with possessing a liquor laden trunk last January. Denison is coming next week to stand trial. He contends the trunk was not his, but was directed to his office by mistake.

Senator Howell, republican, Nebraska, recently charged also that the prohibition law was not enforced in Washington and that little effort was being made in that direction.

Lowman announced that Thomas E. Stone, administrator at Detroit, would succeed Herbert at Baltimore and be in charge of the enforcement in Washington. Stone was in charge at Detroit during the extensive drive the government made to stop smuggling of liquor across the Canadian border.

In making public the charges, Lowman said that Edward S. Jones, who has been assigned as administrator in the Montana area, had been transferred to Buffalo where he will be acting administrator. Ross already is in Buffalo.

Harry Culver, president of the National Association Real Estate Board, landed at Candler Field at 11 o'clock Thursday morning in his Stinson Wright Whirlwind motor ship, and was accorded a warm welcome by a committee headed by Jesse Draper, president of the Aero Club of Atlanta.

Mr. Culver came here from Culver City, Cal., en route to Washington, D. C., to attend a meeting of principal businessmen of America, which has been called by President Hoover. Mr. Culver left here Thursday afternoon and continued to the national capital.

Governor Harry Flood Byrd, accompanied by representative Virginia businessmen and officials of the state highway department and national guard, left the Byrd airport at Richmond, Va., Thursday for a three-day tour of that state's airports. They began their journey in a fleet of 12 army, navy, marine corps and privately owned planes. The purpose of the trip is to promote interest in the development of airports.

Missing the Atlanta field in the dark Thursday, Pilot Hernen landed his mail plane from Chicago at Hampton, Ga., where he ran out of gas. The mail was transported from his emergency landing field (a cow pasture) to Atlanta by auto.

The proposed southern transcontinental air mail route from Atlanta to Dallas and Fort Worth, via Montgomery, Jackson and Shreveport, is the proper route from an operations standpoint, Colonel Paul Henderson, vice president of T. A. T. and N. A. T., stated Thursday morning at the Ansley hotel, just prior to his address

Jerry Marshall, manager of the Gulf Coast Airways, and Harry Austin, operations manager of the line, were visitors at Candler Field Thursday after completing a tour of their line with J. A. Riley, meteorologist in charge of the airways' weather bureau here. The trip was made over the Atlanta-New Orleans air mail line.

William M. McConnell, Atlanta flyer, is spending two weeks' vacation here after setting what is thought to be a record for five months' consecutive flying. The veteran pilot of the giant transport plane of the Firestone Tire & Rubber Company, of Akron, Ohio, flew an average of 250 miles per day for five months.

Colonel Henderson, in discussing airports and close-in landing fields, stated that a field within seven or eight miles from a city, or within 30 minutes from the center of town, is not too far away. "How can you get closer?" he asked. "Cleveland and Chicago are both farther out than Candler field. If aviation is not of enough importance as a factor in transportation to justify a 30-minute motor or street car ride to the airport, then aviation has been far overrated. And, you know, that is not the case."

In speaking of present costs of airplanes and engines, Colonel Henderson stated that the only answer to material reductions in prices will come with large production. "It is my belief that both planes and engines will cost about half their present prices when large production is the rule," the colonel said.

Three Convicted Of Alleged Parts In School Fire

RINGGOLD, Ga., Nov. 21.—(AP)—W. H. Jolly, insurance broker; Clyde Cain, garage owner, and Carl (Flathead) Espy, were all sentenced to prison here today for their alleged parts in the burning of the old Bryan school building.

Jolly was given four years and Cain one year, both on conviction by a jury, and Espy drew two years on his plea of guilty. Two other defendants, Tom Peters, filling station operator, and James Alsbrook, will be tried for the same offense at the next term of court.

Today's sentences were the result of a special session of the Catoosa county grand jury and criminal court to deliver into a long series of fires in and around Ringgold. Jolly was accused of offering a bribe to Espy for burning the Bryan school and Cain and Peters were to share responsibility for paying it. Alsbrook purchased a can of gasoline and delivered it to Espy, according to testimony at both trials. The gasoline came from Peters' station and was charged to Jolly, Alsbrook testified.

Four disastrous fires have occurred here in the past year, each of them being covered by insurance.

The Bryan school, which was saved from flames by prompt work of a bucket brigade, had been protected by Jolly's agency until a short time before the fire and the policy was changed of offering a competing agency, testimony revealed.

Police late Thursday night had been unable to find any trace of Parker's alleged Atlanta kinsmen, and investigation revealed that there was no such number on Evans drive as given in the telegram.

It is all right to experiment but a pity to spend too much time experimenting when you might be enjoying the fragrant pleasure of smoking Camels.

It has been the experience of many smokers, after trying other brands, that Camels give constant and unfailing pleasure. Their mildness, due to choice tobaccos and expert blending, makes it possible to smoke them liberally without any tiring of the taste. This quality, which smokers have learned to depend upon, will be maintained, because Camels are made for those who know and appreciate the real pleasure of smoking.

VIRGINIA AIR TOUR REACHES DANVILLE AHEAD OF SCHEDULE

DANVILLE, Va., Nov. 21.—(AP)—Touring Virginia by air in the interest of further development of airports, Governor Harry F. Byrd and his official party in 13 planes arrived here this afternoon at the end of the first day of the three-day flight to be virtually mobbed by throngs of school children. The first day of flying ended without mishap.

The squadron ran ahead of schedule all day. Following a takeoff from Richard E. Byrd airport at Richmond at 9:15 a. m., the party made its first landing at Port Richmond 20 minutes later. The governor's plane, a tri-motor ship, made the next leg of the journey in 38 minutes, landing on the muddy field at Emporia at 11 a. m., a full hour ahead of schedule. In landing on this field the plane bearing the governor narrowly missed nosing over because of soft ground.

"NO OPERATION FOR ME" SAYS MRS. BENDER

Here is an astounding letter from Mrs. Mamie Bender of Paterson, N. J., and those who suffer from stubborn indigestion or stomach agony, distress or misery should read every word of it.

Here it is: "Dear Sirs: Just a word of good will to you in regard to your Dare's Mentha Pepsin. I have been using your medicine for a couple of years, in fact, I read your advertisement just in the nick of time.

"I had been advised to undergo an operation for adhesions and ulcers of the stomach and was all ready to go to the hospital but asked for a two weeks' stay. I went to the drug store and bought a bottle of Dare's Mentha Pepsin and, thanks be to God on high, I am still without that much appointed operation.

"You can print this if you wish and anyone wanting my advice I will gladly give it to them as I cannot praise your medicine high enough. Yours truly, Mrs. Mamie Bender, R. F. D. No. 1, Paterson, N. J."

Dare's Mentha Pepsin is a mentholated pepsin elixir with carminatives and is real pepsin, nature's own remedy for indigestion and many other stomach ills.

It is sold by Jacobs Pharmacy Co., and live druggists everywhere in America with the distinct understanding that it will help you more than anything you ever used or money back.—(adv.)

FINAL RITES TODAY HONOR CHIEF CODY

the chief's sons attended these schools. Assistant Chief William Butler is acting chief of the department temporarily.

Councilman William E. Saunders, chairman of the Atlanta board of firemasters, requested members of the board and visiting chiefs who will gather to pay their final respects to Atlanta's veteran chief to meet at headquarters company at 1 o'clock to attend the funeral services.

Automobiles will be provided to convey them to the services. Firemen Pay Tribute.

At fire department headquarters the loss of Chief Cody is keenly and deeply felt. Though forced to continue their duties, by the nature of their calling, firemen have paid just tribute to their leader who is the first Atlanta fire chief to die in service.

With heavy hearts they continued their duties after his death, as it was his dying wish that his passing should not impair the efficiency of his department.

The crimson-lined automobile which has taken Chief Cody to thousands of fires is now draped in black, his chair and desk, which have been his as chief for 34 years, are draped in mourning and they will remain so for a period of 30 days. Fire headquarters on Alabama street and No. 4 house on Pryor street are also arrayed in black. Chief Cody was stationed at No. 4 as a captain until his election to chief in 1915.

When the news of his death was announced messages of condolence from all over America began to pour in. Flowers have been received from fire departments in practically every city in Georgia, and all of the principal cities in the south. Among the first messages of condolence received by members of the family were from the following fire chiefs: H. L. Taylor, Rome; H. J. Williams, Macon; E. J. Roberts, Miami; J. C. Fitzgerald, Asheville; H. B. MacMillan, Jacksonville; Jimmie Cain, Gainesville.

W. O. Brossman, Albany; Akin, Birmingham; Lester, Athens; C. R. Rheinhardt, New York city; Monroe, Savannah; Mont Thomas, assistant chief at Savannah, and A. L. Duckett, Monroe.

There were messages from almost every state in the union and several from Canada and Cuba.

Chief Cody had attended every convention of the International Association of Fire Chiefs since he was named head of the Atlanta department, and was known to hundreds by his first name. He helped organize Mayor I. N. Ragsdale requests all city council members to meet at the city hall at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon and to drive from there to the church.

City officials and prominent citizens, all lament the passing of Chief Cody. Mayor Ragsdale and others have given statements to the press. Governor J. G. Hardman states, "In the death of Chief Cody, Georgia loses one of her most valuable and most faithful citizens. Chief Cody's long career with the Atlanta fire department, during which he rose to the leadership of that organization, was a career that should stand as an inspiration to the youth of our state."

Chief of Police James L. Beavers says, "I have known the chief for 40 years, and never have I known a more active man with such an untiring spirit. Physically, he was the most capable man I ever saw. He was able to go night and day, in winter and summer, without the strenuous work seeming to hurt him."

FLAMES DESTROY RESIDENCE OWNED BY E. N. O'BIRNE

The two-story frame residence owned by E. N. O'Beirne, president of the Southeastern Underwriters Association, on Wesley road near Northside drive, was practically destroyed by fire about noon Thursday. It was leased and occupied by F. H. Evans, southeastern manager for the Gossard Company. Mr. and Mrs. Evans are in Chicago on a visit. Mr. and Mrs. O'Beirne are in Pinehurst, N. C., where he is attending the annual meeting of the underwriters.

The fire burned the roof and second story and destroyed all furniture on the second floor. The furniture on the first floor was removed to safety. Fire started on the roof, probably from the chimney or sparks from the chimney.

Quick work by the Atlanta fire department, which responded to the call for aid, prevented total destruction of the home and furniture.

Those indicted with Mancuso, who was chairman of the board, were Anthony Di Paolo, Salvatore Boraci, Leonard Rose, Federico Ferrari, brother of the late Francesco M. Ferrari, the bank's president; Isadore Siegeltruch and Francis S. Paterno.

Housebroken
BY PAUL HERVEY FOX

Tom Davies, football star of a small eastern college, plays brilliantly in his last game. After the battle Bruce Stevens, his roommate, asks him to go to the dance that night to escort a girl who has been asked down to the college for him. Bruce explains that he wishes to avoid meeting one of the chaperons. Tom agrees to substitute for him. The girl, Suzanne Branch, makes an instantaneous appeal to him. She tells Tom that she is engaged to marry a friend of her father's. After she leaves, Tom writes to her. Before the Christmas holidays Tom meets her in New York. Suzanne breaks her engagement to the other man when she and Tom realize they love each other, and she invites Tom to her home to meet her family. Suzanne goes down to the college for commencement.

After graduation Tom's father gives him a small house at Stamford as a wedding present. Suzanne and Tom are married in November, and for the first few months are perfectly happy. One day Tom stays in town to have dinner with some college friends, and on his return Suzanne upbraids him. The storm blows over, and a few weeks later he promises to attend a prizefight with some of the boys. Suzanne creates such a scene that Tom gives up the idea.

About a year after their marriage Bruce Stevens returns from a trip to the orient. Tom is delighted to see him. He asks Bruce to occupy the guest room at their house. They have dinner in town and arrive home late. Suzanne is furious. She up Tom quarrel. She refuses to get up the next morning to meet him. The two men go into town together, and Bruce tells Tom he will have to stay in town. Tom asks Bruce as a special favor to take him to the college to Stamford. That evening on their return from New York, Suzanne greets them at the door. She is cordial to Bruce. The next day she starts a flirtation with him, but he realizes that it is all pretense and is done to get rid of him and his influence on Tom. He tells Tom and offers to help him. They arrange a plan.

INSTALLMENT XVII.

SUZANNE MAKES A PLAN.

Suzanne would speak of the lovely walks she had, and of how Bruce was really teaching her how to play billiards on the deserted table in the cellar.

"Fine!" Tom would say. "Well, Bruce, you're better than I am. I gave up trying."

She went further than she had intended, her fears allayed a little by the fact that Bruce was so cautious. She began giving him glances and special smiles, when Tom was about, that a blind man would have noticed.

Then one warm evening, when she was feeling at once tired and nervous, she started out for a walk and asked Bruce, almost pointedly, to come with her.

They wandered down the state highway and climbed a dirt road to a little rise. There was no moon up, but the stars were as thick as in autumn. Up here a faint breeze stirred the grass, which had a sweet smell.

"O, let's not go any further!" she said. "Let's sit down here!"

There was a pause, then Bruce said as he sat by her side, with a cigarette between his fingers:

"What's the use of going on like this?"

"What do you mean?" She was startled.

"You know I love you," he said in a low voice. "And you're not in love with Tom any more."

She could not answer. He had kept silent so long she had almost expected him to go on like that. And he in his conceit imagined that she didn't love Tom, imagined that she cared for him!

"I thought—I thought Tom was your best friend," she faltered at last. "What of it? You matter more than that to me."

"Yes, that was what he would have said! She might have guessed he wouldn't hesitate to betray any one. In the darkness her lip curled a little.

"You see," he went on, "I've never felt like this about any woman before. You—you're different somehow. I'm just telling you how I feel. I'm crazy about you, Suzanne."

She felt his hand over hers and she drew away and jumped to her feet.

"We've got to go back to the house. You mustn't talk to me like this. I can't help myself."

"Then we mustn't see each other any more."

"You're pretty hard on me, Suzanne."

When they entered the house together it seemed to her that Tom must know that he must realize what had happened, read it in her flushed face and Bruce's averted eyes.

But he merely gave them a sleepy grin, yawned, and said he was ready for bed early.

What could she do, how could she make Tom come to his senses? O, if he only knew!

Bruce returned to silence once

MANY ATLANTA WOMEN DO CREATIVE WORK AT HOME

Popular Matron Adept At Art of Rug Hooking

BY MME. POMPON.

"WHY do you write with such emphasis on the subject of pretty rich girls working in shops and business offices and say nothing of the hundreds of Atlanta women who are working even harder at home? I am certainly not poor. I do not claim to be rich, but I am working myself almost to death making hook rugs." All of the above and much more, besides, came to me over the telephone. "I am making them for myself of course. When they are all finished I shall have something to leave to my great-grandchildren. I am embroidering my name and the date of completion on every one of them in bold black fadeless silk. Several generations in the future my descendants shall be exhibiting these rugs and admitting with pride that they were made by their grandmother. There will be, on such occasions, no sly winks, no giggling comments such as 'Grandmother! Fiddlesticks! Tell us the truth, Geraldine, how much did you pay for them?'"

"MAKING rag rugs has done wonderful things for me," she continued. "It has broken my cigarette habit for instance—cut it right square out. I used to be a chain smoker."

"A chain smoker, what is that?"

"Smoked all the time. Lit a second from the first and a third from the second. . . . But that's all over with. I've actually forgotten how to smoke. I found I could use my hands for something more interesting. My arms, too. There is the big frame to manage; the long hook to pull in and out. I no longer even think of cigarettes. My mind is too completely occupied with the pattern I am copying. If women would only entuse over fancy work again, new style or old. . . . tating even, they would forget all about smoking cigarettes."

THE antique dealer who first encouraging his ingenious buyers to collect hook rugs and bring them in as fast as possible was a genius at divination and started something that was to interest thousands of women and incidentally introduce a very gay and beautiful note in modern house decoration.

The very thought of hooked rugs brings glamorous dreams of long ago fashions and customs; of covered wagons traversing the country in search of new homesteads and of women sitting inside of them busy hook-rugging, mile by mile, all the way; of fine ladies at work in sedate chambers creating and perfecting things of such beauty; that were to be rediscovered after many years and copied throughout the world. An interesting literature has sprung on the art of making rugs. Their designs have been tabulated and classified. There is the Mount Vernon design, the Dolly Madison, the Priscilla, the Molly Pritchard, the Cape Cod and others too numerous to mention.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Orme are planning a beautiful new home which is already more or less under process of construction. Their lovely little white clapboard cottage far back—just beyond the rise in the hill, just where passers-by could see, its roof and nothing more—has been demolished to give place to a more important and roomy dwelling. Mrs. Orme is rapidly recovering from her recent illness and will soon be at home again with her parents, Major and Mrs. John S. Cohen, on Peachtree street, where the Charles Orme family will reside until their new home is completed. Many of their friends are regretting, perhaps unduly, the passing of the little white cottage, so cozy in its remote seclusion, so full of pretty things, with its lovely surrounding flower beds, with its spacious green lawn rising gently before it and slanting gently down again to the roadway.

SLENDER TYPE.

A charmingly slender model that chooses one of the new plaided silks Paris decrees the smartest thing for daytime wear. It is in rust brown coloring.

A diagonal panel arrangement of bodice at front and at centre-front of skirt of plain silk crepe in blending tone, typically modern, gives the figure additional height. The neckline rolled into revers with inset vestee of the plain crepe is youthful.

The skirt cut circular is shaped so as to keep the hipline flat. Narrow belt indicates higher waistline.

Style No. 805 is designed in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 30, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust.

It is very effective in midnight blue crepe satin made of the dull surface with the shiny surface used for contrasting panels and vestee.

Hunter's green faille silk crepe is a very lovely idea for general wear, for it can be worn for street or afternoons.

Bill Roper Sees Close Struggle in Ancient Yale-Harvard Game

CRIMSON TEAM IS IN FINEST OF CONDITION

Eli May Be Suffering From Slight Letdown From Princeton.

By W. W. Roper, Princeton Football Coach.

The Harvard-Yale game looms large in the east for tomorrow. As I see it there is little to choose between the teams. Physical condition favors Harvard; the Princeton game always takes a lot out of the Yale players, though I doubt if this year's contest took as much out of them as the three preceding ones.

Yale got off to a slow start against Princeton last Saturday, and was not at her best during the first half. In the second half the Eli attack got going, but gained mainly on end runs. The Yale attack was not a grueling one, and did not exact as much of the line.

GOOD RESERVES. Yale is well fortified with reserve material, and Stevens used plenty of players against the Tigers. Booth was kept out of the game. His charley-horse should now be much better. All in all Yale should go into the Harvard game in the best physical condition in years.

The team found itself without Booth

Navy Basketeers Beat Signal Five

Assuming the lead shortly after the start of the game, the Navy team of the basketball league at Georgia Tech took a 32-to-8 decision from the Signal Corps quintet in the first of Thursday's games at the Jacket gym.

The young Middies held a 19-7 advantage at the halfway mark and kept up their fast play in the final period. Moore, Greene and Holsenback were best for the winners, while Brandon carried the burden for the Signal Corps.

Battling to hold the Infantry team even during the first half and throughout the early moments of the second, the Ordnance squad was forced to accept a 19-8 defeat by a late rally.

Close guarding, forcing long shots, held the score low. A 4-all count was on the books at the half, and 4-all it remained until half of the final period had passed. The score was then tied at 6-6, after which the Infantry spurred to win with little trouble. Snow was best for the losers, while Pope and Pattillo starred for the Infantry.

Russell Bridges Wins Tourney

Russell Bridges, popular young Atlanta tennis star, won the annual Freshmen tennis tournament at Emory University Thursday afternoon with a 6-3, 6-2, 6-4 victory over Harry Leadingham. The tournament was played on the Dewey courts at Emory.

Bridges was slow to get started, due to the cool breeze, but after the first set he was never in danger of losing the match. Leadingham was in the lead only one time in the three sets and that was in the last when he was 2-1 in the first three games.

Jacket Harriers Leave for Meet

Seven strong and with each man in first-class shape, Georgia Tech's cross-country squad left Atlanta Thursday evening for Chapel Hill, N. C., and the running of the annual conference meet there Saturday afternoon.

The Jackets, who lost by close margins to both Georgia and Auburn after downing Clemson in their first meet, are counted on to offer plenty of competition for the home team, North Carolina's Tarheels. The Tarheels hold the crown from the previous running of the event last season and hope to repeat this year.

The strong squad from the Flats has run in good form all season. The Jackets runners swamped the Tigers of Clemson in their opening race and lost by 4 points to Georgia and by the same number to Auburn. Handicapped by graduation losses, the Jackets have come back strong and are counted on to finish well up in the race at Chapel Hill.

North Carolina's team is also strong this season, but it faces a tough road, Georgia, Auburn and Duke, in addition to Tech, are well-fortified and should cause plenty of trouble.

Bulldog Team Off to Meet

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 21.—The University of Georgia cross-country team, with two victories and one defeat on its record, left here tonight for Chapel Hill, N. C., where the runners will take part in the Southern conference 5-mile road race.

Captain Bob Young will be defending his title and record in the race at Chapel Hill. Last year in Atlanta the Georgia runner set a new record and has bettered his mark in at least one race this year.

The Georgia team finished third last year in this race and has a much improved team running this year. Along with Captain Bob Young will be such men as Carl Bernhardt, Boyd, Bennett, Jim Young and Roy Davis.

Bowdon Meets Marion Today

MARION, Ala., Nov. 21.—Coach Bud Harris and his Bowdon State college gridlers arrived in Marion late this afternoon, where they will battle the Marion Institute Cadets tomorrow afternoon. Coach Harris announced his Bowdon College Collegians were in great shape and ready for a hard battle with the Cadets.

This is the first time the two teams ever met but on advance dope Bowdon should win over the Cadets by several touchdowns.

THE ADVANCING PETRELS

If the Petrels defeat Mercer next Saturday their state championship claims will hardly be disputed. That Oglethorpe has a better team than Tech or Georgia could not fairly be questioned. Some say the Petrels couldn't beat Georgia again. Personally we think they could. However that may be, the Petrels did beat the Bulldogs on the day they played, which is always the best evidence we can think of. That Oglethorpe could take Tech for a ride is an even more certain proposition so far as we are concerned. As a matter of fact, Tech had better be very careful or the Jackets may supply the Auburn supporters with their first chance to cheer during the season.

SO IF YOU WANT to see the state's best team in action Saturday you should attend that game at Hermance stadium and show your appreciation of the record of a brave and valiant band of warriors who have brought Atlanta much prestige on the gridiron.—By Morgan Blake, in the Atlanta Journal, November 18th.

IRISH FAVORED TO HAUL DOWN NORTHWESTERN

Zupke Says Notre Dame Has More Speed, Football Knowledge.

By Bob Zupke, University of Illinois Football Coach.

Big Ten teams have played a lot of good football this season and there will be no letup tomorrow, although the championship was settled last week. Traditional rivalries are often more efficacious in inspiring an eleven than the vision of a championship crown.

Northwestern, defeated by Indiana to general surprise, bears the banners of the Big Ten against Notre Dame in the penultimate game of the Irish campaign. A bunch like nothing better than a bunch of eager sophomores full of the elixir of youth which may kick out in all directions, and Northwestern against Illinois' veterans was a fine example of this spirit. Northwestern played good football this season but Coach Hanley did not have the reserve power to keep up the pace. As a Big Ten coach I wish Northwestern well, but the Irish have more speed, more football knowledge and more man power. My guess is that they will win.

TOUGH HUSKIES

All we know about Washington, which plays Chicago at Chicago, is that the Huskies, after a bad season, turned in good games against Stanford and California, losing by a single touchdown in each instance. If the Pacific coast triumvirate is as good as assumed, this should indicate superiority over Chicago.

Chicago has only average players and no backs of great ability, although Van Nise looked good against Princeton. Nevertheless, Coach Stagg's wide passing formation and his players' out cut the sideline and another in motion, is hard to stop. My guess is Chicago.

Iowa has pounded along week after week against as tough opposition as there is in the country, and probably shot a lot of its strength in its struggle against Purdue. Inherently the Hawkeyes are a better team than Michigan. They are better openfield tacklers.

ANTI-CLIMAX

But the Hawkeyes have made their greatest effort and failed, and the Michigan game is an anti-climax for them. Michigan, coming back after a disastrous start to beat Harvard and Minnesota, is in a desperate and has more incentive. The Wolverines should be at their best. The game will be tight and may be decided by a point after touchdown or a field goal, but my guess is Michigan.

You may expect Indiana to make a great stand against Purdue at Bloomington, but the champions should win their hereditary rival. Indiana has a strong passing attack, as well as Purdue, but the Purdue backs are better.

Ohio State's players, refreshed by a rest last Saturday and eager to close with victory over an old rival, are likely to play over their heads against Illinois at Columbus. The advantage of these rests cannot be overestimated. Ohio State's schedule was arranged to permit an easy game in advance of the Illinois contest. Illinois looks good enough to win unless the Buckeyes catch out veteran flat-footed.

TIGHT STRUGGLE

Wisconsin did not play last Saturday and should put up its best game against Minnesota, which can hardly be in as good physical condition after two hard games, Michigan and Iowa. Thistlethwaite's material was overrated. It is never safe to predict what sophomores will do. Usually they fail to live up to the promise they showed as freshmen. This should be a tight struggle, with Minnesota eventually the victor.

If Nebraska can take Kansas Aggies tomorrow and Iowa State Thanksgiving Day the Cornhuskers will be Big Six champions for the second consecutive season. The Aggies, coached by "Bo" McMillen, have been the surprise of the valley, rising from last place in 1928 to a championship possibility.

The Aggies, who defeated Kansas, Missouri and Iowa State by one point margins, have a well-balanced squad and they meet Nebraska on their own field. Nebraska, which defeated Kansas and tied with Missouri and Oklahoma, is the only undefeated Big Six team. The Cornhuskers, neither on offense nor defense, have been up to old standards, but with greater reserve power they should have the edge.

POOR CONDITIONS

Missouri came out of the New York game in poor condition and the stage is set for a Kansas victory, as the Jayhawkers had an easier game with Washington U. If Jim Bausch, big Kansas fullback, who has been crippled, is able to play, he may supply the punch that will decide the battle. Oklahoma is favored to win from Oklahoma Aggies.

SPOTLIGHT

Yale and Princeton have had their annual war, but tomorrow two of the big traditional games of football still remain—Harvard and Yale, at Cambridge; Stanford and California, at Palo Alto.

These two games have gone deep into sentiment and they have been rich in tradition. They carry memories that drift back through many decades. They have nearly always been full of color and heart interest. Tomorrow, in addition to all this, they will bring about the double meeting of four strong teams. There is greater interest in each contest this season than their average meeting can show, with something to spare. California and Stanford are two of the strongest teams that football calls into action for 1929. Harvard and Yale are well above last season's strength, so far as possibilities go. The Blue and Crimson have played high-class football and each has been able to put on attack worth looking at—an attack hooked to speed and power—plus an improvement in the passing game.

Outstanding Stars.

Yale has had in Albie Booth one of the sensational backs of the year—of many years. It has been a long time since a back, weighing well under 150 pounds, was able to star upon a big-time organization, facing a hard schedule.

Harvard has in Barry Wood one of the star passers of the game. When Fielding Yost rates him up in the neighborhood one, ruled by Benny Friedman, the caliber of his marksmanship can be understood. Wood can't run and kick with Booth and can't pass with Wood. There was a time when the east was supposed to be well back of the west in forward passing. This season the east has two of the greatest passers football has known, in Cagle and Wood. If the west has passers to match this pair they have been kept under cover since the season started.

Harvard has a better all-round backfield than Yale has—a stronger collection of reserves. Not many teams can bank upon such a flock as Harper, Mays, Putnam, Wood, Hugely, Potter, Deven and Gilligan.

There is no great difference so far as the two lines are concerned—but if there is any edge it belongs to the Blue. Yale has the better ends, headed by Barres, one of the stars of the country.

There are football stars on both teams—big, fast men who have the stuff, and this will make the contest of the most interesting yet played between two of football's oldest rivals.

California and Stanford.

This game has the Pacific coast in a turmoil. The annual rivalry of California and Stanford goes back 40 years. Their next meeting will have a decisive bearing on the Pacific coast championship. California has shown more stuff than western critics allotted Price's team at the start, and there is a general belief that Stanford has not yet played up to its peak form.

California goes into battle with four leading stars—Benny Lom, backfield; Schwartz, guard; Reigels, center, and Norton, end.

California also has a fast, able quarter in Eisan, a marvelous punt catcher and a hard man to bring down.

Lom is one of the best backs football has turned into action this fall. He is a fine ball carrier, a high-class kicker, an able passer and a strong defensive man. He can do about everything that a good back ought to do, and do it all extremely well.

It was Lom's all-around play that helped California to upset Pennsylvania and Southern California. He will be hard to suppress at Palo Alto.

This far western game should be a classic. In the way of a tremendous crowd, highly fevered interest and high-class play, it will be a game second to no other played.

The Next Notre Dame Test.

Notre Dame steps out once more against a team capable of giving anybody an even battle. Northwestern was badly crippled in the loss of Bruda, a star back, but Hanley has brought others along and he now has an outfit that will press even the South Bend Cyclone to the limit to win.

Ohio State's players, refreshed by a rest last Saturday and eager to close with victory over an old rival, are likely to play over their heads against Illinois at Columbus. The advantage of these rests cannot be overestimated. Ohio State's schedule was arranged to permit an easy game in advance of the Illinois contest. Illinois looks good enough to win unless the Buckeyes catch out veteran flat-footed.

Sophomore Stars.

Albie Booth, of Yale; Barry Wood, of Harvard; and Alex Tuncich, of Purdue, are all sophomore stars and have two more years in which to make gridiron history.

Golden Bears and Stanford Clash in Important Game Saturday

Coach Jones Favors California To Win

Result of Battle Will Have Much Bearing on Pacific Coast Title.

Outstanding on the Pacific coast tomorrow is the game at Palo Alto, between Stanford and the University of California. The outcome will have an important bearing on the final ratings in the Pacific Coast conference.

If California wins it will have undisputed championship. If Stanford wins it might mean another championship for the men from Palo Alto. Southern California still has a chance to stop the Pacific coast teams if it wins the two remaining conference games, Idaho and Washington State, and if Stanford wins from California.

Horse Guards, Fort To Clash

Next Sunday will witness a re-annulment of the local polo battles between the Governor's Horse Guards and the Fort McPherson teams. These teams are so closely matched that a year's play last season showed only a goal or two difference in their total. Both teams are striving this year to build up a commanding lead.

During the early part of the season Fort McPherson had a decided advantage due to a team that had been together for a season and the development of good horses during the preceding winter. The Governor's Horse Guards trailed until they were materially strengthened by the purchase of new ponies, then they took the lead for the last five games.

As they stand now both teams are about equal in games won. The playing season is about over. Both teams are determined to close the season with a decided margin of victory. This condition will give Atlanta some of the best polo to be witnessed in this part of the country.

The Governor's Horse Guard team will use their lineup that has been so successful during the past four games. Gay will be at No. 1. The leading Christian will be in the attack position, No. 2. Love will be at No. 3 and Moran will be at No. 4 to keep his team in line and check any attempts made on his goal.

Fort McPherson offers a new lineup. Tolson, the veteran No. 1, will remain in that position. Wing will be shifted to No. 2. Frank at No. 3. Biddle or General McCoy will be in the defensive position. The addition of General McCoy and Lieutenant Biddle should strengthen the Fort McPherson team. Both are players of wide experience and in practice quickly fitted into their positions in the team.

DECATUR TIES MARIST, 0 TO 0

Two Prep Elevens Battle Hard But Are Unable To Score.

Marist College and Decatur High fought to a 0 to 0 tie Thursday afternoon at Spiller Field. Neither team had a real opportunity to score and the game was marred by frequent fumbles on both sides.

In the first two quarters the teams battled in midfield. Both fumbled several times. Neither team had any decided advantage either in punting or in line plays.

Decatur High had a slight edge in the last half. The DeKalb county lads gained considerable more ground than Marist but could not keep up the pace when within the 25-yard line.

Marist intercepted three Decatur passes and ran back for 15 and 20 yards but soon lost the ball on downs or were forced to punt.

Richards, Stipe and Comer played good ball in the Decatur line, while the two Flyntes, Allen and Captain Johnston, played good in the backfield.

Van Houten was the star for Marist. Hancock and Holt also played good in the Marist backfield, while DeGivie, Ryckley and Harrison played good in the line.

Vols Seeking Strong Foe

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 21.—(AP)—The University of Tennessee Athletic Association announced today it had communicated with several schools, seeking an intercollegiate game for the near-champion Volunteer football team next year.

Professor N. W. Dougherty, faculty advisor of the Athletic Association, declined to give details. He said Princeton had declined an invitation to meet the Volunteers next fall, and indicated a number of major eastern elevens had been approached.

"We are just throwing out some lines," Professor Dougherty said tonight. "We probably could get a game by not stipulating a return engagement two years from now, but we don't care for that kind of arrangement. We want to get a real contract, when we get one, and have suggested such a contract to all the big schools in the east."

The executive council directing athletics is to meet tomorrow.

Professor Dougherty said a more definite announcement may be made then.

Dobbs Paid Tribute By Atlanta Leaders

Baseball Renaissance Seen for City as New Manager Is Feted by Citizens.

went up when H. Y. (Uncle Henry) McCord, a prominent businessman, arose to say that he was 75 years old but that he had always believed in baseball because it was a clean sport and that he gave his influence to the new organization because he believed in the game and the manager the team had obtained.

The theme song of the symphony of enthusiasm was that there was to be a revival of interest in baseball, that all Atlanta had pledged its support to manager Dobbs and the team and that baseball in Atlanta was to have a revival.

Mayor I. N. Ragsdale was the first speaker. He called Manager Dobbs' attention to the representative group of Atlanta's leaders who were present to greet him. "It is a fine tribute to you and the game," he said. "I know of few men for whom this representative body of men would have turned out."

H. Y. McCord was the second speaker and awoke the audience to enthusiasm by declaring that he would always be one of the boys that he believed in baseball and its civic benefits.

Albert Howell, speaking for the city at large, recalled the good old days when Savannah and Atlanta played for the state championship. He told of a Savannah second baseman who had tackled an Atlanta runner and held him back from scoring the winning run and of how only Henry Grady's eloquence stemmed the mob. "These days must come back again," he said. "I believe they will."

I have seen great bankers, a president of the United States and other famous men entertained in this club and none have I seen a finer audience or more enthusiasm than has greeted you, Mr. Dobbs."

PLEDGES SUPPORT. James D. Roberts, president of the First National bank, pledged his support to the club.

Henry Kennedy, of the Fulton National bank, paid a fine tribute to R. J. Spiller, former president of the club and now vice president and business manager. "I recall when a country boy came to me and begged $100 on his word," he said. "He wanted to buy the concessions of the Atlanta ball park. I let him have it. He came back later and asked for $200 and got it. He came back later and asked for $100,000 and got that. I want you to introduce R. J. Spiller."

GETS BIG HAND. Spiller got a big hand. All his associates told of their confidence in his business ability and integrity. H. Y. McCord paid him the best tribute of all when he let him go. "I want to go into the organization that was buying the club. 'If you say it's all right, that's all I want to know,'" he said.

Spiller told of wanting to make a better ball club for Atlanta and of setting in motion the plan to sell out his club to the civic leaders of Atlanta.

Robert T. Jones, Sr., spoke of the fine influence of sport. He was followed by Bobby Jones, his son, the national open golf champion and one of the directors of the club. "Aside from the fact that I am thinking about pitching for Johnny there isn't much I can say," said Bobby. "I know the fans will be behind Dobbs. We believe in him and know he is capable."

Chip Robert read a letter from John D. Martin, president of the league, in which he expressed his regret at being unable to be present and congratulated Atlanta on the new owners and their stories of how they had later Dobbs and Birmingham, but of how they now called him "Brother."

Woody, representing the Junior Chamber of Commerce, which will sponsor the opening day crowd, said, "If you haven't 20,000 seats yet, there on opening day you will have someone standing up."

Sam Orr and Lee Guest, the faithful fans, captivated the crowd with their stories of how they had later Dobbs and Birmingham, but of how they now called him "Brother."

GATHERS CATS. Orr took the cats to worry Fort Worth, of making a photograph record with which to worry Johnny Dobbs. Dobbs was the arch foe.

Fort Worth pledged his support to the proposition which he entered into as a civic proposition.

Walter Candler declared that he wanted to have Atlanta achieve the best in all things and that he was willing to sign for his part of the new organization as soon as he heard Dobbs was to be the manager.

Arthur Burpee, one of the men who started the plan going to have representative citizens own the club, followed with a similar speech.

JOHN D. DOBBS. Jimmy Burns, of The Georgian, Guy Butler, of The Journal, the writer and Chick Ross, new secretary, spoke briefly.

Johnny Dobbs followed with a modest speech of thanks and a pledge to do his best for the team and the city that had given him such a tremendous welcome.

O. B. Keeler, of The Journal, followed with a tribute to the game and to Johnny Dobbs.

"Good will and enthusiasm reigned," you see what they all think of you, Johnny," concluded Chip Robert, "and that's why we had this meeting—just to let you know."

Yes, sir, the Atlanta baseball renaissance began last night. A list of those present at the meeting was read by R. J. Spiller. They were: H. Y. McCord, Walter Candler, R. T. Jones, Sr., R. T. Jones, Jr., Arthur Burpee, H. J. Spiller, J. D. Martin, Sr., Frank H. Reynolds, Scott Hudson, L. F. Montgomery, Charles Black, Sr., Samuel Evans, Dudley Black, C. Grant, Trammel Scott, Paul Barcroft, Henry Kennedy, Tom Strickland, Chip Robert, Lt. Jack Malcolm, J. T. Selman, Sam Orr, Lee Guest, Ralph Smith, J. H. Woody, Charles C. Neill, Capt. Lowry, Gordon Hardy, John Ross, Captain Robert, Jerry Beam, Mayor I. N. Ragsdale, Jackson Dickson, Albert Howell, Bob Woodruff, Earl Maun, O. B. Keeler, Jimmy Burns, Toke Edwards, George Strickler, Guy Butler, Ralph McGill.

Dobbs Will Scrap Crackers Slowly. New players will be added to the Atlanta baseball club before the work of wrecking the 1929 machine is begun, declared Johnny Dobbs as he officially took charge of the Crackers yesterday afternoon.

"It is a mistake to start getting rid of an old club in a hurry," said Johnny Dobbs, the astute little man who stands out today as the finest manager in the minor leagues, and one of the smartest baseball men in the business.

"Often a new manager will step right in and begin to tear down the old machine and make sales and swaps. And then when he begins to get together his club he finds that he needs some of the men he let go."

"We have plenty of time here in Atlanta and I will be in no hurry to dismantle the 1929 club. Some of the men are good ball players. I have no idea who will be kept. I have not given it any great amount of thought as yet. We may talk it over, Mr. Spiller and I, on this hunt to take at Dover Hall but we may wait until we return and devote ourselves only to sport on the trip to Dover Hall."

BROOKLYN CASE. Dobbs indicated that there would be nothing definite done this week regarding the major league alliance which the Crackers have had with Brooklyn. Dobbs can get along without a major league alliance as he has demonstrated in the past. Whether the Crackers will continue fighting for control of that club, is doubtful.

Chick Ross, former president of the Mobile club, was officially signed as secretary of the Crackers yesterday. He will report to Atlanta December 1 and take over the office affairs. Ross succeeds Dr. J. T. Selman, who was secretary last season.

The executive officers of the club met at Spiller park at noon yesterday. Chip Robert, president; R. J. Spiller, vice president and business manager; H. Y. McCord, chairman of the board; Johnny Dobbs, manager, and Chick Ross, secretary, met at the clubhouse and then repaired to the Athletic Club for lunch and a short meeting.

COMMITMENT. The group was photographed and Robert, the new president, chided his associates. "Gentlemen," he said, as the photographers made ready, "I wish to tell you that you are about to officially commit yourselves as officially connected with and responsible for the success of a baseball team."

"Well," said Bobby Jones, the national open golf champion, "if we don't have a winner we will all have to leave town and so I hope we can get together a winning club."

The officials were high spirits. Photographers requested that three of them sit on a bench with the others standing behind.

"Here shall we sit?" asked Mr. McCord.

"Well, I'll tell you," said Johnny Dobbs, "I am the manager and that gives me the right to bench anyone I choose."

ACTION SOON. The executives of the club will meet again as soon as the football season ended and get into action. Dobbs indicated that his first deals of importance would be made at the convention of the minor leagues which will be held at Chattanooga December 2 and 3.

The convention brings together the National Baseball Association which dent of the National A. A. U., Avery Brundage, sounds a warning that amateur athletics are sure to die out if the present evils of competition in colleges are not remedied. That is interesting. Brundage is a college man, and was a great athlete at the University of Illinois some years ago. It is surprising that he would make a statement of this sort, as I see no connection between the two. There is too much of a trend today to place the blame of everything on some other attractive feature of life.

The A. A. U. should never recognize that the situation in American colleges is endangering their own organization. I have never yet been able to appreciate the difference between providing free tuition in college for athletes and providing free membership in athletic clubs for athletes. Both represent a certain amount of money provided—and the former is much more tenable position than the latter. The providing of tuition expenses to athletes is done at many colleges, but the same provisions for release from expenses is made for hundreds of students who are not athletes, so that discrimination in favor of athletes is hard to prove. However, few athletic clubs and few dependent organizations provide free membership to any class except athletes.

I should think that a much more relevant subject for discussion at the National A. A. U. meeting would have been the abolition of free athletic memberships in clubs, rather than the directing of so much attention to the evils of college athletics.

PRO FOOTBALL.

The absolute disappearance of any parent differences between professional football leagues and colleges is a great thing for both sides. Professional football managers were wise in the decision to keep away from college football players until after they had been graduated, and college managers were wise in dropping the idea that professional football was hurting the college game.

Their paths do not cross, and never did as many people thought. Professional games are drawing good crowds in the east and middle west, but they never compete with college games. The managers are too wise for that. They play all of their games on Sunday, and thus provide many people an opportunity of seeing former college players that they are prevented from seeing because of necessity of work and inability to get tickets to college games.

Professional games are not as interesting as college games because of the inability of the backs to make runs. The reason for this is that the defense is so perfect that a ball carrier has no chance at all. Forward passing is the main element in the game, and scores are low. Only people who are truly interested in the technique of the game, or fans who follow some particular star pay money to see these games. The game lacks the color and the uncertainty of college competition, and has no great future as a money making proposition.

SERIOUS SOUTH.

It must be true that football is taken a great deal more seriously in the south than in other sections of the country. Practice in the Southern conference is legalized after the first Monday in September. The teams in the west and east that belong to intercollegiate associations or organizations do not begin practice until the middle of September, always two weeks later. In the west there are very few "hanging" day games, the season closing this week-end. In the east Princeton is already through, having completed the 1929 schedule against Yale last Saturday. The majority of teams play their last games this week-end, while many schools in the south play on until the 7th of December. That is too long.

TOUGH DECISION.

Talk about tough decisions and situations for football officials, how about the one that ended the Cornell-Columbia game three weeks ago? With one exception, the end of the game Columbia had the ball on Cornell's 1-foot line, with the score 12 to 6 in favor of Cornell. Ed Thorpe was going to throw a pass to the end, the umpire. When Columbia made its plunge Ed Thorpe waved the ball dead, declared no touchdowns and declared the game finished. Three of the officials at once left for the dressing room, but the Columbia team refused to leave the field. As soon as the three officials had reached the dressing room word came to them that the headlinesman was sitting on the ball over the goal line, declaring that Columbia had scored.

The three officials then had to return to the field and again declare the game over, under the added handicap of appearing as if they had gone into the dressing room for a conference to decide what to do. Fortunately the game was played at Cornell!

includes all the minor leagues in organized baseball. Chip Robert and Bobby Jones, president and vice president of the Crackers, said that they would attend the Chattanooga meeting along with Johnny Dobbs and Vice President Spiller.

It will be the first baseball meeting for the two new officials of the Crackers club. The Crackers were sold to a group of Atlanta business men a few weeks ago and their first move in the future of plans for better baseball for Atlanta was the signing of Dobbs.

that no school could play a representative schedule with member teams, there were so many of them. "The S. I. A. A. rules are excellent," Coach Russell said, "and I have no kick against the administration, but I would like for Mercer to be a member of a more compact and smaller body."

New Conference Looms in Dixie.

Associated Press Sports Writer. A new athletic conference may spring into being in the south before the start of another football season. Both Furman and Oglethorpe universities have decided to withdraw from the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association and there is much talk that several other schools will shortly follow suit. It is believed that these withdrawals are the first move in a plan to form a smaller and more compact conference of Georgia, North and South Carolina and Virginia schools. As now constituted, the S. I. A. A. is a large, unwieldy group of more than 30 small colleges, scattered over the south from Kentucky to Louisiana.

known that it would like to have T. Lane and Tennessee meet to decide the conference championship in the event both elevens wind up their schedules with clean slates.

MORE OF 'EM.

Although badly beaten in intercollegiate brushes this year, southern teams are coming back for more in 1930.

Already three big duels have been carried and more will follow. Georgia Tech takes on Carnegie Tech. Vanderbilt goes west again to try to get even with Minnesota and Georgia plays Yale. Maryland also probably will tackle the Blue again.

WONDERFUL FROSH.

As is usually the case around this time of the year, there is a lot of talk going the round about whirlwind freshman teams. This is particularly true in cases where the varsity isn't so hot this year.

Suspension of Small Trader

Facts To Disturb Movement

NEW YORK, November 21.—(AP)—Prices of the New York curb market made further recovery today after an early period of irregularity. Gains in the active issues ranged from 1 to 10 points, with advances of 10 to 20 points in a few high-priced specialties. Some new soft spots also cropped out, at least half a dozen issues sinking to new low levels for the year.

Failure of another curb member was announced today, making the fourth suspension since the beginning of the recent bear market. The firm was J. J. Mandeville, Brooks & Chaffee, which held an associate membership, all curb failures have involved small firms or individuals who were not engaged in a general commission business. Sale of a curb membership was arranged today at $150,000, a drop of $100,000 below the previous sale made prior to the big break in prices.

Buying orders in today's market were distributed over a fairly broad list, and with the public utility market the shares in the forefront of the advance. Little activity took place in the oil and aviation issues, although the undertone was firm.

Electric Bond and Share was again the most active feature in the public utility group, climbing more than 5 points to 813.4 and closing just below 800. The stock touched 800 on the recent bear. Commonwealth Edison advanced 10.4 points on a few sales, Northwestern States Power A 91.2, American and Foreign Power warrants 73.8, National Public Service 69.4, American and Foreign Power A 91.2, American Gas and Electric and several others advanced 2 points or more.

Gains of 1 to 4 points were quite common among the investment group. The stock of the American Oil Field, trading and holding corporation shares, with Insull Utilities, Third National Investors and the selected industries issues recording the best gains. Humble, with a gain of 3.18 points, was the feature of the oil group.

Deere & Co., soared 34 1/2 points to 425 on a few sales. The stock has sold as low as $10 and as high as 642 this year. Crowley Milner ran up nearly 12 points.

Hartford, Conn., Steel, Bigelow, Hartford, Budd Wood & Sons, Fender Grocery A and Safety Car Heating and Lighting were among the issues to sink into new low ground.

FARMER BROWN'S BOY ARRIVES
By Thornton W. Burgess.

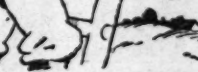

Appearances so oft deceive
This hard to know what to believe.
—Farmer Brown's Boy.

The more Flip the Terrier thought how he had been fooled by Unc' Billy Possum, the more excited and the faster and louder he barked at the foot of the apple tree in which Unc' Billy had sought refuge. Even Bowser the hound began to get a little of Flip's excitement and he, too, began to bark at that great deep voice of his. No more away or that something had moved. "What are you doing over here in the Old Orchard?"

Farmer Brown's Boy began climb up the apple tree. Unc' Billy saw him coming and backed out along one of the branches. Farmer Brown then reached out and shook the branch. Unc' Billy hung on with all four feet and his tail. Down below he and the others yelled and barked with growing excitement and were ready to pounce on Unc' Billy the moment he should be shaken off. Then Farmer Brown's Boy happened to look down and saw the old possum below might kill Unc' Billy before he could get down to have him. So he stopped shaking. Instead, he climbed down out of the tree, left Flip and Bowser at the foot of the tree and got a ladder from the barn. With this ladder he could get Unc' Billy, and did so. Unc' Billy saw him coming and that it was no use to try to get away. He snarled and showed his teeth, but Farmer Brown's Boy reached out and got him by the tail. And then Unc' Billy tried his old trick again. He just pretended to be dead.

Farmer Brown's Boy took him down and when Flip saw that he was bringing Unc' Billy down it seemed as if he would turn himself inside out with excitement. Farmer Brown's Boy when Farmer Brown's Boy came out of the house and heard the barking over in the Old Orchard, he started over to see what it was all about.

"Those two dogs are excited about something," said Farmer Brown's Boy.

"I wonder who or what they have found now,"

When Flip and Bowser saw Farmer Brown's Boy, they became more excited than ever. Flip was leaping up at the front of the tree, as he barked so fast that you would have wondered how he got his breath. Of course, Farmer Brown's Boy saw Unc' Billy Possum at once.

"Well, well, well," exclaimed Farmer Brown's Boy. "If it isn't old Unc' Billy Possum himself! It's long time since I've seen you, Unc' Billy. I had begun to think that you had held Unc' Billy out for Flip to smell of, but when Flip attempted to bite Unc' Billy, Farmer Brown's Boy spoke to him sharply. So he learned that he was not to kill Unc' Billy.

Farmer Brown's Boy laid Unc' Billy down on the ground, and both Flip and Bowser came and smelled him all over. Not even when they blew in one of his ears did he move, and that must have been a pretty good sign. For a dead Possum look any more dead than Unc' Billy looked. But all the time Unc' Billy was peeping out under his heavy-lidded eyelids, watching every thing that went on. Was he afraid? Of course, he was afraid, but he didn't show that he was afraid. He knew that his safest plan was to bluff.

Flip and Bowser, however, remained without motion nothing was likely to happen to him. And so without protest he allowed Farmer Brown's Boy to climb up on his tall, put him down on the ground again, roll him over, and never once did he move so much as an eyelash.

The next story: "The Cunning of Unc' Billy Possum."

THE BEASTS OF TARZAN No. 83

In the face of the frightful beasts the courage of the maniacs wavered and broke. Those with revolvers fired a few scattering shots and then receded for some place of supposed safety. Into the shrouds went some; but the apes of Akut were more at home than they. Screaming with terror many of the half-breeds were dragged from their lofty perches. Others were pounced upon before they could even scramble aloft.

The beasts, uncontrolled by Tarzan, who had gone in search of Jane, loosed the full fury of their savage natures upon the unhappy wretches who fell into their clutches. Within the forest and on the deck there was a whirlwind of fighting. Sheets in the meanwhile had been crawling havoc with his great fangs. Then he spied Kai Shang, the crafty ringleader of the sordid outfit, just as that Chinaman darted down the companionway to his cabin.

With a shrill scream Sheets was after him. The scream awoke an almost uncanny cry in the throat of the terror-stricken Chinaman. But Kai Shang reached his cabin a fraction of a second ahead of the panther, and, leaping within, slammed the door—just too late. Sheets' great body hurtled against it before the catch closed, and Kai Shang felt the impact of the beast's fangs.

A moment scarcely had elapsed after the Kincaid's mate had leaped upon Jane Clayton and wrenched the revolver from her hand when the door of the cabin opened and a tall and half-naked white man stood framed within the portal. Silently he leaped across the cabin. The mate felt sinewy fingers at his throat. He turned his head to see who had attacked him, and froze with horror when he saw the ape-man's face close above his own.
